

MIDDLE PASSAGE PROJECT LECTURE SERIES at Yorktown Victory Center

The Middle Passage, a project of The College of William and Mary funded in part by the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy, explores the movement of black Africans to the New World and the experience of African Americans in 17th-century Virginia. Lectures will be held Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m. in the Yorktown Victory Center's Richard S. Reynolds Foundation theater.

February 4, 1998

Patterns of Migration of Africans to the New World

*by Philip Morgan, Professor of History,
The College of William and Mary*

February 11, 1998

Language of the Hand Work and the Shaping of Slave Identity

by M. Chandos Brown Associate Professor of History and American Studies, The College of William and Mary

February 18, 1998

Archaeology in the African Diaspora

by Ywone Edwards Ingram Coordinator of African American Archaeology, Colonial Williamsburg Foundation

February 25, 1998

Monuments of the Black Atlantic: Teaching the Middle Passage

*by Joanne Braxton
The Frances L. and Edwin L. Cummings
Professor of American Studies and Professor of English,
The College of William and Mary*

March 4

The Material Culture of the African Diaspora

*by Grey Gundaker
Assistant Professor of Anthropology,
The College of William and Mary*

Yorktown Victory Center, Old State Route 238 near Colonial Parkway, (757) 253-4838

Lectures are included in the Yorktown Victory Center admission of $7.25 for adults and $3.50 for children ages 6-12. Educators and students receive complimentary admission with identification.

Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation
P.O. Box 1607, Williamsburg, Virginia 23187