Grand Illumination Came Early for the Tribe

One of the many traditions in Williamsburg is the Grand Illumination, which includes a huge fireworks display and the lighting of all of the buildings in Colonial Williamsburg for the holiday season. Well, the Tribe had a "Grand Illumination" of its own when it turned on the new lights at Zable Stadium for the first time for the football game against James Madison on November 5th. Despite the tough one-point loss, the night was truly special as it marked a new era for Tribe Athletics. With the excitement generated by our teams in 2004, especially surrounding football's run in the playoffs, the campus as a whole this fall was beaming with Tribe Pride. With student attendance at events rising to levels rarely seen at William and Mary and a new president of the College who roams the sideline in the pouring rain to cheer on the team, it's very exciting to be a part of this program. With that, we bring you the latest from the 'Burg...

Two Staff Members Invited to Teach at Old Dominion University

Renée Cork and Andy Carter have accepted Adjunct Faculty appointments at Old Dominion University in the Department of Exercise Science, Sport, Physical Education, and Recreation for the 2005-06 academic year to teach graduate courses in the Graduate Athletic Training Education Program. Renée is finishing up with her fall semester course entitled "Advanced Evaluation and Rehabilitation." Andy will be teaching "Evaluation and Treatment of the Spine" in the spring semester.

Tribe Athletics in the Fall

This was a fall of ups and downs for the Tribe on the field. Our football team spanked #1 ranked New Hampshire early in the season but finished with some tough losses to end up 5-6. Volleyball had one of its strongest seasons this fall finishing 2nd in the CAA with a 22-8 record, but stumbled in the opening round of the conference tournament. Field Hockey finished around .500 but managed to make it to the semi-finals of the CAA tournament. Men's and Women's Soccer were rarely up or down in that they combined for 13 ties, with the women setting the NCAA record for ties in a season. The Cross-Country squads excelled as usual with the Men and Women finishing 22nd and 23rd, respectively, in the NCAA championships.

Alumni Update—Where are they now???

Laura Nelson brought students from the sports medicine class at Warwick High School to the athletic training room for a field trip in December. Brandi Burrows and Krista Gruhn stopped by our athletic training room at the Richmond football game to say hello. Brandi is the Assistant Athletic Trainer at Hampden-Sydney College and Krista is a Graduate Assistant Athletic Trainer at the Citadel. Amity Rubeor was down in Williamsburg in early December for a sports medicine conference for family practice physicians. Brian McGaughran will graduate from Logan Chiropractic College in December, and will most likely be practicing in Northern Virginia. He and his wife Elizabeth (Class of '99) and had a daughter, Olivia Gail, in January. Scott and Kate (Mansfield) Clayton came to Williamsburg in November for the JMU game and hung out with the staff afterwards. Katherine Brittingham is a postdoctoral fellow in the Division of Bacteriology at the US Army Medical Research Institute of Infectious Diseases. Kindall Hollowell is our newest Certified Athletic Trainer, having passed the test this fall—she is the athletic trainer at Denbigh High School. Camille Fiske is working in Richmond as a personal trainer. Former staff member Dave Lagow announced his engagement to Allison. Marjorie and John Bessler came to William & Mary with their son on a campus visit prior to their departure to Stuttgart, Germany.

Athletic Training Aide Program Continues to Grow

A couple of years ago, we developed the Athletic Training Aide program to give students with an interest in medicine to volunteer to work with different aspects of our program, depending on their individual career goals. For example, students who plan to pursue careers in physical therapy may choose to volunteer during our morning clinical hours. They work side-by-side with the staff athletic trainers, observing patient evaluations, learning rehabilitation techniques, and practicing hands-on patient care under our supervision. On the other hand, students who seek to enter medical school or a graduate athletic training curriculum may choose to work at football in a paid position.

This year, we continued to offer both the volunteer program as well as the paid football positions for students to work on the football staff as athletic training aides. Our volunteers in the morning were very eager to learn and to get involved in patient care. They very quickly became an important component of our morning staff as they became more and more proficient in their role. Likewise, the football group was invaluable to the daily operation at the stadium. They began during preseason and continued to work practices and games throughout the year. These students—veterans Jessica Bain, Chris Frantz, Christine Orlowicz, Chris Racine, and rookie Leslie Short (pictured on the right)—earned the respect of the players, coaches, and physicians, and staff with their dedication and skill.

We are excited to see the Jewusiak Memorial Endowment, the Linkenauger Endowment, and the Class of '74 Endowment all continue to grow. We appreciate your continued support of these endowments.

Thanks to John Gerdelman who donated a much-needed stationary bike to sports medicine for use at the football practice field.

Jimmye Laycock Football Complex & Mont Linkenauger Athletic Training Suite

With the announcement of the new Jimmye Laycock Football Complex, we would like to invite each of you to be a part of this exciting new facility by making a contribution to help us equip the Mont Linkenauger Athletic Training Suite. Mont's dedication to the athletes under his care and the students in his classroom was unmatched. Likewise, the Mont Linkenauger Athletic Training Suite deserves state-of-the-art therapeutic modalities and rehabilitation equipment in order to continue the legacy of quality health care that Mont established many years ago. For more information on how you can honor Mont by contributing to the Mont Linkenauger Athletic Training Suite in the Jimmye Laycock Football Complex or any of the Sports Medicine fundraising efforts, please contact the Tribe Club at (757) 221-3350.
